

SISTER'S MIND SNAPS AT GRAVE OF SLAIN CHILD

Myrtle Smith Taken Raving
From Cemetery to Hospital Ward.

hine upon the arm of her escort, she looked once at the familiar and now deserted room.

"Harry, Harry, oh, has he come yet?" she sobbed, and over and over, while being led up the steps, she voiced her grief at the loss of her baby brother.

It was necessary to carry her part of the way, and for hours afterward she lay inert, moaning and calling for the dead child.

Physicians were summoned immediately and declared that the girl is in a serious condition.

The collapse of Myrtle Smith is the climax of a grief the like of which has seldom been seen even by Detectives, long used to the aftermath of tragedy.

The outbreak this morning, followed the paroxysms of grief which have shaken her ever since the discovery of the crime, and her identification of the body, when she tried to hurl herself into the river, which flows back of the morgue.

No New Developments.

No new developments have been noted by the police in the homicide and arson case against Tony Milano, since six men solemnly declared they believed Harry Elton Smith was killed by a weapon in the hands of the shoemaker. These six men had witnessed the most remarkable scene, the most harrowing exhibition ever seen in the District's house of death down on the river front, where all things are gruesome or pathetic. And while few ever approach the little chapel-like morgue who are not sorrowful, men who have seen sad visitors come there and go for many years, declare that yesterday's scene has never been equaled.

Calmness restored, after the paroxysm of incarnate vengeance which hurled her, a frail, brown-eyed girl, at the throat of the man she believed killed her brother, Myrtle Smith yesterday declared that the law of Moses, an eye for an eye, shall prevail, and that she, the next of kin, must see that justice is done.

Not since the day, five years ago, when the body of former Senator Brown lay at the morgue, and throngs gathered there in idle, morbid, curiosity, has there been a case, say the police, where women have flocked about the scene of sudden death as they have in this case.

Curious Ones Hamper.

Throughout their investigations the police have been hampered by the morbidly curious.

All day Sunday the pavement in front of the shoemaker shop at 403 H street northwest was packed. Eyes eager to glimpse if they could the tattered newspapers which covered stains of blood or to see the half-consumed newspaper which lay atop of the victim's charred body pressed against the dusty window panes of the shoemaker's rooms. Crowds hung around the Sixth precinct station until driven away, all because somewhere in the back of the red brick building, in a cell of stone and iron, a man sat who was different and, from their standpoint, desirable to see, merely because the body of an afflicted child, slain and burned, had been found in his shop.

Scene At the Shoe Shop.

Yesterday when Milano was taken to Police headquarters to be photographed, men and women went even into Detective headquarters, asking "Where is he? Can we see him?" and were gruffly ordered out by the police who do not sympathize with this sort of interest.

Later yesterday the police, with their photographer, Fred Sanberg, went to the little shop which has been sealed since the crime. They went there to take photographs to be used as evidence, and found a crowd still lingering about. One tall blonde woman forced her way in while the police were in the room, and when they noticed her, she was lifting the papers covering the blood stained floor, and poking into the charred remains of the body, in a effort which had enveloped the boy's body.

Antoinette Milano and her three hampers must leave their humble home, in Schott's alley. They are destitute. The Victor Emanuel Society, however, will see that they do not suffer until they can be sent to New York, to live with friends.

Board Will Divide Estimates for Schools

Unable to confine their requests within the mark set by the Commissioners for school estimates, the Board of Education will submit a supplementary list of estimates they claim are urgently demanded.

The decision was reached this afternoon at a meeting of the ways and means committee of the board, of which Henry F. Blair is chairman, in conference with President James F. Oyster and Superintendent W. M. Davidson.

It is understood that the supplementary budget aggregate about $250,000, which, with more than $3,000,000 asked for in the regular estimates, will bring the school total asked for to about $3,250,000.

Though the estimates are kept sealed until sent to the Commissioners, it is understood that the supplementary improvements to McKinley Manual Training School, and about $24,000 for the colored school's equipment will be asked.

If the supplementary list goes through, the congested conditions in the northeast section will be relieved by a new school structure which will take care of the grade manual training work and the domestic science classes as well as a number of grades.

This new building will be erected in the vicinity of the Wheatley and Pierce schools and $60,000 will be asked for the purchase of a site to start the work on the building.

Louis Hooff Indicted In Alexandria Bank Case

Nine indictments were returned against Lewis Hooff, secretary and general manager of the defunct Mercantile-Railway, Building and Loan Association by a special grand jury in corporation court, in Alexandria today. Four of these are for larceny of certificates of stock, to a value of $5,100; five charge larceny of various sums of money from the Virginia State Deposits and Trust Corporation, amounting to $3,500, bringing the total amount of Hooff's alleged pecuniations to $8,600.

Part of the purport of the report was as follows:

"We find that the system of book-keeping was entirely inadequate and confusing."

"Furthermore, we find that the directors were ignorant of the operations of the institution and the methods applied, relying entirely upon data furnished by the secretary, from which they made their report."

Hooff is now at liberty on $10,000 bail, but will be required to appear in Corporation Court tomorrow to answer to the indictment.

PENSIONS FAVORED FOR OLD EMPLOYEES THROUGHOUT NATION

Many Government Men Held in Service to Keep Them
From Poorhouse.

That there is a nation-wide sentiment for pensioning superannuated employees, such as is advocated by Postmaster General Hitchcock, was announced at the Postoffice Department this morning.

Letters received from all parts of the United States tell of many pathetic cases where men who have given the best years of their life to the Government, working on small salaries, are retarding efficient postal service.

Because they have always worked on low salaries, a discharge would in many cases mean the poor house. Rather than so embarrass them the postmasters throughout the country retain them, though their work could be much better done by younger men.

Postmaster General Hitchcock expects that he will have earnest support when he presents to Congress his plan of pensioning superannuated employees.

Mistaken Identity Bothers W. F. Matteson

Being mistaken for a victim of an automobile accident, especially when one has the reputation of being one of the city's most careful drivers, is not an enviable position, and William F. Matteson, a suburban real estate operator, recently has been placed in that predicament.

Recently an automobile turned turtle on the Bladenburg road, and pinned to the ground its driver, E. C. Matteson, who was held there till relief came. A report of the accident was made to the police headquarters, and the Washington newspapers published this. Since that time, William F. Matteson has been congratulated repeatedly on "his" narrow escape.

"Was in no automobile accident; never have been pinned under an upturned car; have been, and now am in the best of health, and am just as much obliged, but do not need any sympathy or congratulations," Mr. Matteson said this morning.

GOLDENBERG'S BUYS SCHWARZ STOCK OF MEN'S FURNISHINGS

Announcement is made that the stock, consisting of men's furnishings, hats, rain coats, and other merchandise for men will be placed on sale tomorrow at materially reduced prices.

As the Schwarz stock was selected for this season and the business has been conducted only a year, none but new goods is to be found. The stock has been moved to Goldenberg's and will be sold there.

Salesman Is Accused of Passing Worthless Check

Charged with obtaining money by alleged false pretenses, Harry G. McMillan, forty-one years old, a salesman, living at 615 Fourteenth street, northwest, is a prisoner at the Sixth precinct police station today.

McMillan was arrested last night by Detectives Cox and Berman on complaint of J. W. Ireland, a dealer in electrical supplies, at 742 Ninth street northwest, who says McMillan passed an alleged worthless check for $10 on him.

CASCARETS INSURE INSIDE CLEANLINESS

The millions of Cascaret users never have Headache, Constipation, Biliousness or Sick Stomach.

It is more necessary that you keep your Bowels, Liver, and Stomach clean, pure, and fresh than it is to keep the sewers and drainage of a large city free from obstruction.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage-way every few days with salts, cathartic pills, or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver, and carry out of the system the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

No odds how badly and upset you feel, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from your druggist will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Traction Company's Lawyers to Argue Against Transfers

Attorneys for the Traction Capital Company will appear before the Supreme Court of the District tomorrow in the suit of the Baltimore and Washington Transit Company to compel the former company to exchange transfers with the latter at the point of connection of their lines at Fourteenth and Kennedy streets northwest. On Saturday the answer of the traction company will be filed.

No intimation of the form of answer has yet been made. R. Ross Perry, counsel for the company, said today that he did not know yet what course he would pursue.

The universal transfer issue will be joined this week and the legal fight to enforce the law providing for transfers and reciprocal package facilities will begin on Saturday before the Supreme Court. It is expected to be hotly contested. The Capital Traction Company is expected to "stand pat" in its refusal to recognize any legal duty to issue transfers to the Baltimore and Washington Transit Company's line or to accept transfers from that company's line.

Charles W. Darr, the Chamber of Commerce attorney, who will co-operate with Harry F. Lerch and Henry W. Williams, attorneys for the receiver of the transit company, will confer with them this afternoon and decide upon his course of procedure. Mr. Darr, while representing the chamber, was requested to take part in the suit in the interest of the people of the District.
